

If you let the bankers get their way with all their crying and whimpering by not observing the NO CALL LIST, then who's next; lawyers and magazine subscriptions after that. It's like the domino effect, you let one get away with something and everybody else will want to follow suit and then why have a DO NOT CALL LIST?